TALKS ABOUT GERMAN ARTIST
SCHEDULED TUESDAY, THURSDAY

MISSOULA--

Two public talks commemorating the 500th anniversary of the German artist Albrecht Durer (1471-1528) will be presented Tuesday and Thursday (Nov. 30 and Dec. 2) at the University of Montana.

Both talks will be in conjunction with a public exhibition of prints from works by Durer. The exhibition in the UM Gallery of Visual Arts in Turner Hall is open to the public without charge from Nov. 29-Dec. 10.

Tuesday's lecture, entitled "Durer as a Man of his Age," will be presented by Dr. Gertrud Lackschewitz of the UM Department of Foreign Languages at noon in room 305 of the UM Liberal Arts Building.

James E. Dew, a professor of art at UM, will discuss "Durer as a Renaissance Artist" at noon Thursday in the Gallery of Visual Arts. Thursday's lecture will be an introduction to the works on exhibit in the gallery.

The exhibition, entitled "Durer and His Time," contains 50 panels of reproductions including such famous woodcuts as the Apocalypse, self-portraits and altar paintings. The display is being provided by the Germanic National Museum in Nuremberg, Germany.
